Accountancy - Online Option for Second Degree Candidates

The School of Accountancy offers an online Bachelor of Science (B.S.) in Accountancy for business professionals seeking professional advancement or a change in their career path to accounting. The program blends traditional campus instruction with modern technology providing the Auburn campus experience to online students.

Our traditional campus accounting classes are filmed in smart classrooms using state of the art technology. Online students watch their lectures via streaming video either live or at a time convenient to their work schedules. Therefore, online students receive the same instruction and AACSB accredited degree as their on-campus peers. Online students are held to the same rigor and academic standards as those of our on-campus students.

Admission to the online B.S. in Accountancy program is limited to second degree seeking candidates only who meet the following criteria:

- Candidates must have completed either an AACSB-accredited bachelor's degree in business or an AACSB-accredited MBA.
- Candidates must have either a USA or APO address.

Since admitted students will have completed an AACSB-accredited bachelor's degree in business or an AACSB-accredited MBA prior to enrolling in the online B.S. in Accountancy, they will receive a waiver of the university and college core classes and be required to complete only 30 semester hours in accounting. The admissions process and advising is administered by Amy Murphy, Director of Accounting Graduate and Online Programs in the School of Accountancy. For more information, please contact Ms. Murphy at amy.murphy@auburn.edu or (334) 844-6118. Completed applications will be considered on a competitive basis by the Committee on Undergraduate Study in Accountancy.
