

Critical Studies in Education

The purpose of the critical studies minor is to provide students in this program with opportunities to explore and apply critical theories as they relate to schooling, teaching and learning, and educational research. This critical analysis of education is centered on understanding cultural, institutional, and structural dynamics that create and perpetuate injustice, inequity, and oppression in education and schooling. Students will enact educational praxis that opens, and develops, and sustains critical consciousness around inequity, injustice, and oppression and supports those becoming critically conscious.

Code	Title	Hours
For this minor, students will complete 3 graduate credit hours from the following:
FOUN 7000	Cultural Foundations of Education	3
FOUN 7010	History of American Education
FOUN 7020	Social and Cultural Diversity in American Education
FOUN 7030	Philosophy and Education
FOUN 7040	Philosophy and Educational Research
FOUN 7050	Global Perspectives on Education
FOUN 8010	Global Perspectives on Education
Students will complete 9 hours of coordinator-approved elective credits. A list of approved elective courses is available from the program coordinator each semester before registration begins.		9
Total Hours		12