

Certificate in Leadership for a Global Society

The undergraduate certificate in Leadership for a Global Society is intended to help students from any major prepare to be leaders in a global environment. In addition to specific coursework on leadership, the certificate prepares leaders by encouraging critical thinking and stimulates reflection about the economic, social, political, and environmental contexts in which global community engagement and international interactions occur. Regularly enrolled and non-degree-seeking students who complete 12 hours of courses as outlined below may be awarded the certificate.
